American Citizen News

Happy Independence Day!

Notes from Mission Germany's Acting Minister Counselor for Consular Affairs Lawrence Mire

Even if you don't follow soccer it has been difficult to not be pulled into the World Cup mania in past weeks. It has been quite a sight to see fans walking around waving not only German flags but also Ghanaian, American, and Brazilian ones as they cheer on teams from around the world. The World Cup gives every nation the chance to show its best face as some of the world's finest athletes attempt to win it all for their countries.

Much like our national team, each one of our citizens who lives abroad represents our nation to the world. Our country's image isn't determined solely by the decisions our government or major corporations make. Each one of us is the face of America for a sizable group of our neighbors. It is thus important that those of us abroad be prepared for life as both a citizen of America and a resident of Germany.

Here at the consulate we do our best to ensure that all Americans have the necessary resources to exercise their rights as Americans and, for those of us who are recent arrivals, acclimate to life here. To this end we have information in this issue on updated passport and consular fees, primary voting, federal benefits, and the Newcomer's Festival as well as the American Citizen Information Night.

I hope you enjoyed the World Cup!

American Citizens Info Night

Important Notice: Passport and Consular Fees are Changing, See Page 2 for full story

New Consular Fee Changes

In order to ensure that the Department of State has sufficient resources to meet the increasing cost of delivering consular services, the Department is revising the fees associated with passport and immigrant visa services. The changes reflect more accurately the actual costs of doing business, as determined by a June 2009 cost of services survey. The following fee changes are of particular interest to American citizens. For information on other fee changes please visit <http://frankfurt.usconsulate.gov>.

PASSPORT AND CITIZENSHIP SERVICES:

Beware of IRS Impersonators

Phishing is a method used by “fraudsters” to get information on individuals to use for various kinds of identity theft. Phishing can be in the form of emails, faxes, or phone calls.

Taxpayers, both in the U.S. and abroad, have been the victims of “Vishing” (Voice + phishing) scams during the past 18 months. Individuals acting alone (or possibly in groups) are faxing taxpayers bogus IRS documents. Taxpayers are then completing these documents, containing their Personal Identifying Information (PII), and sending the documents back to these individuals via fax or via email. Fraudsters use this PII in identity theft schemes.

The Internal Revenue Service does not contact taxpayers via email or fax and never requests that taxpayers provide the agency with PII. Believe me, they already know.

These bogus requests/documents have been delivered in several ways:

- Documents are sent directly to the taxpayer’s fax machine. Individuals are typically instructed to complete a form (such as Form W8-BEN, Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Tax Withholding) and fax the requested information to the number provided.
- These vishing requests are also sent as an email with or without an attachment to the tax payers.
- Individuals may receive other bogus government documents (such as an IRS tax receipt) by fax or email; normally as part of an elaborate scam that usually involves lottery winnings or a large number of stock shares.

Regardless of the circumstances or method used, taxpayers who receive phishing or vishing documents should send an email, with all attachments, to phishing@irs.gov. [If you receive documents via direct fax you will need to scan the document into your email to the IRS.]

If an individual taxpayer is a US citizen and has experienced losses, they should file a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) at FTC Complaint Assistance

If the taxpayer is NOT a US citizen, but has been a victim, they should file a complaint at Econsumer.

For more information visit the IRS at Newsroom.

You can also contact the IRS in Frankfurt at 069-7535-3811 for additional information.
